Perry, William, of Kelso, Scot.
The royal standard English dictionary. In which the words are not only rationally divided into syllables, accurately accented, their part of speech properly distinguished, and their various significations arranged in one line; but, likewise, by a key to this work, comprising the various sounds of the vowels and consonants, denoted by typographical characters, and illustrated by examples, which render it intelligible to the weakest capacity, it exhibits their true pronunciation according to the present practice of men of letters, eminent orators, and polite speakers, in London. Upon a plan perfectly plain, and entirely new. To which is prefixed, a comprehensive grammar of the English language. To the whole is added, the Scripture proper names in the Old and New Testaments, names of the principal cities, rivers, mountains, &c. in the known world, also, the ancient and modern poets, philosophers, and statesmen, &c. with their proper pronunciation pointed out. 3d Worcester ed., carefully rev. and corr. Petrocellus Salernitanus, fl. ca. 1035.
Practica; traduzione e commento a cura del dott. Angelo Capparoni. Presentazione di A. Pazzini. Roma Istituto di storia della medicina dell'Univ. di Roma‹ 1958.
vii, 255 p.
Translation of the Latin texts published in the Collectio salernitana edited by Salvatore de Renzi, Naples, 1852-59.
Includes the first book and fragments of the 2d and 3d books of the "Practica Petrocelli Salernitani" from the manuscript Saint-Germain 1146 in the Bibliothèque nationale, Paris; and fragments of the "Curae Petroncelli" from a manuscript in the Biblioteca ambrosiana, Milan.
The Practica is thought to be an adaptation or even a copy of a lost Alexandrian Latin original, itself a version of an unknown Alexandrian Greek text. Of the several Salernitan physicians of the same or similar names, the adapter, according to Renzi in his Storia documentata della Scuola medica di Salerno, Naples, 1857, is probably to be identified with Petrocellus (also known as Petrus Clericus et Medicus or Petrus de Salerno) who flourished ca. 1035.
